

Biography

Alonda Tucker was born January 6 in Newark, Delaware. Being a Delaware native, from her youth she has always had a heart for the community. She is an evangelist, motivational speaker, and philanthropist. Her heart for the community can be seen in the active role she has played over the years. Such as participating in Wilmington's Youth and City Government, Delta Sigma Theta Oratorical Contest, and in recent college years interning at the Office of Congressman (Now Governor) John Carney.

As time passed, Alonda decided to start her own non-profit called EmpowerU in 2016; a program designed to help communities reach a potential within themselves that would otherwise go dormant due to poverty, low self-esteem, lack of vision or resources. Through this organization she hopes to help impact people to change the climate of their various environments, starting with self-development. EmpowerU has adopted the slogan "Changing Your World, before changing the World". EmpowerU takes people from all backgrounds of life through the journey of becoming their best self, through coaching, training, and development.

To Help launch this platform she decided to run for Miss Black Delaware US Ambassador, a title she obtained in October 2016. Thereafter she ran for the for the national title of Miss Black US Ambassador in July 2017. Winning top 10 semi-finalist and Miss Photogenic, Alonda has used her title as a vehicle to serve in the community. Some events include hosting the Martin Luther King march held annually in Wilmington Delaware, speaking at the William Hicks Anderson Community Center, and even reading to kids at her former schools, Carrie Downey and Thurgood Marshall Elementary.

Alonda is a college graduate from Wilmington University, graduating with a Bachelor's of Science degree in Marketing. And is currently enrolled to receive her Master's in Business Administration (MBA) with a concentration in Marketing Management. Having touched hundreds of people nationally and internationally. Alonda strongly believes that the key to success is in Loving God, Loving People, then Impacting The World!
